Field Marshal Oyama's whole army Field Marshal Oyama's whole army is across the Taitse River, and is pursing General Kuropatkin's forges. The Russian losses during the fighting at Liao Yang are estimated at 16,000. There is no doubt that a number of guns, especially siege artillery, have been abandoned. The report that the Emperor will go to the front is again revived and seems to have foundation. It is known that the imperial train has been fitted out for a long journey.

Oyama Hanging On.

Oyama Hanging On.

A summary of the war situation to date shows that the whole Russian army, or at least the main portion of it, is already above Yental station, and is pushing on toward Mukden. Field Marshal Oyama's entire army has crossed the Taitse River, and part of it is hanging on to Kuropatkin's flank.

has crossed the Taitse River, and part of it is hanging on to Kuropatkin's flank.

A strong flanking column on the east is pushing rapidly north in the effort to head off the Russians. Against this column Kuropatkin has sent out a strong cavalry division to the northeast, which, it is believed, is already in position to counteract the Japanese flankers, while to the westward Kuropatkin is moving a division towards. Another Flanking Movement, Another Flanking Movement.

The Japanese have thrown a strong flanking column across the Taitse River at Benitzu, about thirty miles northeast of Liao Yang. This column is hurrying to the northeast and endeavoring to get in between the Russian army and Mukden. It is against this movement that Kuropatkin has dispatched Lieutenant-General Rennenkampff, with a strong Cossack division, which, it is believed, is already blocking the eastern high road. Kuropatkin has three roads over which he is marching towards Mikden, besides the double tracked railway. The latter is chiefly occupied in the transportation of guns and of Lost Sixteen Thousand.

General Kuropatkin, in a telegram to the general staff, filed at 1 P. M., September 5th, north of Yentai, says the Japanese on Sunday engaged his rear guard south of Yentai, the fight continuing until Monday morning. The telegram details the precautions taken to checkmate the Japanese taken to checkmate the Japanese Kuropatkin estimates his losses up to and including September 4th, at 16,000. This is considered to be a very conservative figure. The loss to the Japanese probably will be double this number, owing to their position as attackers.

Kuropatkin says nothing regarding the loss of guns, but it is probable that some of the heavier emplaced guns at Liao Yang had to be abandoned.

General Kuropatkin says that the retreat is being conducted in perfect order. The Japanese repeatedly attacked the Russian rear on Sunday, but in every case they were repulsed. This is the first intimation that such a cource is contemplated. If it turns out to be true, it means the abandonment of the whole of southern Manchuria and the winding up of the present campaign. In fact, should Mukden be evacuated, there would be no point for wintering the army of a quarter of a million with its many wounded short of Harbin. On the other hand, the evacuation of Mukden would give Field Marshal Oyama commodious winter quarters and the practical control of two lines of railway. Tokio Believes Big Fight Will Occur at That Point-Japanese Officers Killed.

(By Associated Press.) (By Associated Press.)
TOKIO, September 5-8 P. M.-A mass of official reports on the battle of Liao Yang reached the imperial headquarters to-day, but they will not be given out until it is possible to put them in order and make from them as concise and dotailed story. In the meantime headquarters is refraining from giving any-quarters is refraining from giving anything to the public.

It is generally known that General Kuropatkin succeeded by means of a desperate rear-guard action, and strong and well handled flank movements in withdrawing the great bulk of the Russian army, and that he cut bridges to hamper the Japanese pursuit. Critical interest centers in the operations of the Japanese right wing which occurred late Friday night and early Saturday morning. Japanese right wing which occurred late Priday night and early Saturday morning. General Kuroki then swung to the westward, his movement being designed to flank the remainder of the Russians left at Liao Yang liself. It is believed here that General Kuropatkin is bound to lose many prisoners to the Japanese. It is possible, however, that the topographical difficulties and the overwholming opposition of the Russians may check this movement on the part of General Kuroki.

Among the Japanese officers reported killed in the battle of Liao Yang are Licutenant Tearouchi, minister of General Kuroki.

Among the Japanese officers reported killed in the battle of Liao Yang are Licutenant Tearouchi, minister of war, and Licutenants Fukushima and Muriatta, both sons of Japanese generals. Official figures of the Japasese losses and a list of the trophics captured are expected to reach Tokio to-morrow. It is believed here that General Kuropatkin's next stand will be made at Mukden, although there is defensible ground south of there.

Field Marshal Yamagata, chief of the ghneral staff, and Lieutenant-General, Tearouchi were the hosts at a banquet given to-night in honor of the Liao Yang victory. The guests included the imperial princes, the members of the Cabinet and the elder stalesmen, the staff officers of the army and navy departments and chiefs of bureaus.

Tokio is illuminated again to-night, and the principal streets of the city, where a series of lantern processions are taking place, are thronged with people.

The Japanese made a fine infantry attack. They succeeded in reaching the Russian trenches, but were repulsed with heavy losses. The Japanese shrappel, as a rule, burst too high. Late that afternoon the news came that Kuroki was threatening the railroad at Yental and the Russians commenced to retire, enabling the Japanese to bring up two batteries and onfliade the Russian force along the railroad. During the night the transport moved into Lino Yang.

The afternoon games of the Twin Chy League were attended by a large and demonstrative crowd.

Rooting was divided, as it always is, but Minchester and Richmond appeared to thave the most sympathizers. Richmond was unfortunate in that both games were lost—the morning one to Manchester, the other to the Brownies.

Of the three games the last one was the most interesting. Fitz pitched a great game for the Northsiders, not allowing a kingle hit in the nine innings. The Southsiders had but one chance to score, and that was sholled by derce base running. Charters pitched a good game, too, allowed but four hits. The official score shows what is what.

The morning game went to Manchester, with Edwards in the box. He held Richmond down to one run, and the score was to 2. The attendance was not large, owing to the parade and other attractions, but the game was a good one to tions, but the game was a good one to see.

The result of the games puts Barton Heights one point closer to the Brownies and narrows the margin between Manchester and Richmond.

Manager Dally, of the Brownies, has received another telegram from Norfolk urging him to play a game there to-morrow. The Brownies will probably play a series in Norfolk and one here about the middle of the month. The Norfolk team is said to be the strongest team in the State.

A Third Under Price.

This bit of good fortune is totally due to the determination of one of New York's biggest and most reliable importing houses-dealing principally in fine linens-to discontinue the handling of cotton goods.

The Quilts in question are strikingly handsome in designs and especially so in qualities. They form a really choice assortment-from the best of English looms, in the finest and most refined of modern patterns-there are hardly two designs alike in the whole collection.

They are all fresh, immaculate and absolutely perfect. Many extra sizes amongst them.

We succeeded in getting a few hundred dollars' worth of these Handsome Imported White Marseilles Quilts at price concessions which enable us to offer them, commencing Tuesday morning, at a third less than their real values-which means that you pay for them just what they would usually cost us in New York.
